Leadership Development / Leading Teams

Organizations that encourage and support the use of teams as an integral part of the workforce, develop solutions that are more creative and innovative; use resources more efficiently; improve their ability to implement change; have employees who are more committed to their work; and experience higher employee morale. This four-hour, interactive workshop, which is designed to increase employees' skills and success at leading teams, will teach participants to be more effective team leaders of ongoing work teams, continuous-improvement teams and/or project teams.

“Providing valuable intrinsic knowledge to enable managers to better understand their selves and others.”

This workshop is conducted using lecture and overheads with exercises to reinforce learning. There will be workbooks for each participant as well as a self-assessment tool. Ample time is left for discussion and interaction including a question and answer session.

Upon completion of the workshop participants will:

- Understand the characteristics of a team.
- Experience the power of working in teams.
- Identify their own team player style and recognize their strengths and weaknesses as team leaders.
- Understand what makes teams function effectively.
- Be able to apply different methods of team decision-making.
- Understand how to help teams move through various stages of development.
- Know how to build more effective teams.

“This workshop was very thought provoking! The exercises got the mind working with strong interactivity and teamwork.”
